About the Floriculture Today

Floriculture Today publishes special issues associated with domestic and international events in which it participates, and copies of these special issues are distributed free of charge to all participants, seminar delegates, and others, in addition to regular subscribers and advertisers of the magazine.

Floriculture Today is a cutting-edge magazine that delves into the fascinating world of agriculture and its significant role in the flourishing floral industry. This premier publication provides a wealth of knowledge, insights, and trends for professionals and enthusiasts alike. With a focus on India's vibrant floriculture scene, Floriculture Today offers an invaluable resource for those seeking to stay updated on the latest developments, techniques, and market opportunities. Whether you are an experienced horticulturist, an aspiring florist, or simply have a passion for flowers, this magazine is your ultimate gateway to the captivating realm of floriculture.

Floriculture Today recognizes the critical connection between floriculture and agriculture. It goes beyond the traditional scope of floriculture to highlight the crucial aspects of farming, cultivation practices, and sustainable agricultural methods. With comprehensive articles and in-depth features, the magazine explores the various facets of modern agriculture and its impact on the broader floral industry. From advancements in hybrid plant breeding to innovative pest management strategies, Floriculture Today equips its readers with the knowledge required to thrive in the ever-evolving agricultural landscape.
