About the Pigment Technology

This book covers unit operations of pigment manufacturing process and is aimed at the researchers, students, entrepreneurs, artists as well as veterans in the field of coatings, plastics, textiles, pharmaceuticals etc, and is expected to serve as a manual for many end users of pigments.

While writing this book, I considered the requirements of a pigment manufacturers, end users, veterans of chemical industry, students, artists. For pigment manufacturer, well defined classification of pigments, raw materials used for particular pigment, chemistry involved in manufacturing and brief manufacturing process are important. The Book also covers properties and application to push their product in particular applications.
